Name attestations

Attestations are associated to dates and sources.

There can be multiple attestations with the same name entered by different contributors. They will be listed all listed to give maximum flexibility to the user in evaluating the attestations.

Connections

Connections are freely entered by contributors in the form of triples, where the predicate is restricted to the predicates available in the EM Places ontology.

The idea behind this section is being able to capture all the connections of places to other places; therefore the predicates used will be mainly related to place types and topological relations.

The subject of the triple will always be a place.

Interactions

- Click on place (subject): open the place detail page.
- Click on the object of the triple:
 - If the object is a place: open the place detail page.
 - if the object is a place type: open the list of places with that place type (like the one for the results of a search).
 - If the object is not a place or a place type: do not show link if there is no relevant page to open; otherwise show it and point to the relevant page.

Maps

This section contains and displays all the maps available for a particular place. In some cases the date of the map will be uncertain, unknown, approximate, etc. Appropriate conventions for labeling such cases will be decided at a later stage, once data will be available.

Interactions

- Click on a tab with a date: show the corresponding map.

Hierarchies

This section displays the 4 possible hierarchy types connected to a place. Currently only two of them are implemented in the model (administrative and ecclesiastical).

Each hierarchy type can have one or more instances, each of which is identified by dates. In case of concurrent instances (e.g. when for the same years there are disagreements between scholars, resulting in multiple and different instances) these will be listed singularly in the list of years so that the user can see them one at a time and compare them.

Interactions

- Click on a tab with a hierarchy type: show the corresponding hierarchies.
- Click on a date or date range within a hierarchy: show the corresponding tree.
- Click on a place name in the tree: show a popup with the basic info for the place and a link to its detail page.

Calendars

This section contains the sequence of calendars adopted in a place through history. For every calendar a code must be defined (here "J01" stands for Julian Calendar starting Jan. 1st; G for Gregorian calendar).

Interactions

- Click on a bar (green/white) in the timeline: show a popup with the basic info for that calendar and possibly a link to open its detail page (TBD).

Free text search

Free text search offers three options:

- “Exact match” performs a search for only the exact string typed in the field (“Opole” > “Opole”).
- “Contains term” performs a search for all the place names that contain the exact string typed in the field (“Opole” > “Opole”, “Opole Voivodeship”, etc.).
- “Is connected to term” performs a search for all the places that have a connection whose subject or object is the exact string typed in the field (“Opole” > “St. Adalbert”, etc.).

A Google Maps-like autocomplete will be provided (see examples of interactions).

Once a search is done and the results are displayed the “Save your search” button becomes active.

Note: the free text should support Elasticsearch grammar for regular expressions and wildcards.

Interactions

- Click on radio button: select the logic of search.
- Click on search: perform search. If no term is entered display message to the user.
- Click on “Save your search”: save the search parameters (including further filtering e.g. through facets) in a static file or in a personal area (TBD).

Facets

Facets offer a convenient way to filter the whole dataset or the results of a search.

There are two main types of facets:

- Checkbox-based: for ordinal and nominal variables.
- Slider-based: for numerical and ordinal variables.

Checkbox-based facets offer:

- Sort options (numerical and alphabetical).
- Hide/show facet.
- Text box to filter in case of a long list of available options.
- “More” to expand over the top 5 options.

Slider-based facets offer:

- Hide/show facet.

Interactions

- Check-box based:

- Click on checkbox: filter data in the results table.
- Enter text in filter text box: show corresponding items in the facet as the user types.
- Click on sort option: sort facet items based on the selected option.
- Click on hide: minimize facet (show only title and replace “hide” with “show”).
- Click on “More”: expand the facet list with 5 additional items and show right scroller.

- Slider-based:

- Drag dot: move the left or right side of the interval in the slider.
- Click on hide: minimize facet (show only title and replace “hide” with “show”).

This bar represents the total number or records in the collection and (after a search) the number of results on the total number.

It helps understand the amount of results on the total. In this respect a visual representation with bars is much better than text and numbers only.

List of results

The list of results presents the main information that will make it possible to identify places:

- “Place” contains the preferred name, as well as its administrative hierarchy (defaults to current, if available).
- “Place type” (if available) comes from Getty’s AAT.
- “Alternative names” are the topmost names in the latin script.

On the top-right corner, a menu allows to choose the sorting criteria of the results in the table.

Interactions

- Click on a row in the table: open the details page of that place in a new browser tab
- Click on the “Order by” menu: display options to sort the results in the list:
 - By relevance (default)
 - Alphabetically (A-Z)
 - Alphabetically (Z-A)
- Click on “More”: display 5 additional alternative names and a scroller to view others if they exist.
- Pagination: click on the number, previous and next links to browse through result pages.

Facet summary

Once a search has been performed and one or more values in the facets have been selected to filter the results, a facet summary will appear on the top of the result list. It allows to quickly evaluate the filtering criteria applied, as well as to remove specific filtering values.

Interactions

- Click on the “cancel” icon on the right of every facet value selected: remove that filter from the facet and from the results list.
